Welcome to the 50th edition of the Miller's Log. We have included a few pictures from some of the old yearbooks to add a little flavor to the pages. We tried not to overdo it so that a majority of the book is here and now. There were many faces and features we wanted to include but time and space did not allow. This was a strange year in many respects. The yearbook came close to demise. Only eleventh hour advertising and contributions from the people who provide goods and services to SHS pulled it through. The subscription numbers were not enough to warrant a book of any size. This lack of desire also showed when it came to clubs and some activities. They were not represented because they weren't interested enough to get memberships in to us. One thing has not changed though, and that is the urge to put on the dog for the camera and for the cameraman to try to capture a few precious moments during the year. We hope you enjoy the book.

Coast Classroom

Education keeps getting closer to where it happens. Marine biology classes travel to the coast rather than just reading about it. Students learn to live with nature in outdoor ed., History students travel up the McKenzie to study historical spots. Students learn trade skills on the job.

Oceanography class visits coast. The new class was part of the biology department changes in classes. Faculty lower row, John Anderson, Auto Shop; Norm Anderson, Speech; Carolyn Atkins, counselor; Phil Backman, Chemistry; Glen Beisner, drafting, Cora Best, cook.

People use to try to avoid required courses like a plague. English? - "Ugh." p.e.? - double ugh. Biology, social studies, and math all rated grimace-grin and beat it or don't graduate. Now students flock to the same areas to take mass media - Heroes and Monsters, Far West History, Outdoor Ed., Developmental Math. Perhaps with some classes it has only been a name change. But most are more interesting and relevant now than ever before.

CORE....an evaluation

The faculty and staff worked from early in the summer of 1970 through the 70-71 school year on CORE. CORE, Career Oriented Relevant Education, was at first confused with the Congress Of Racial Equality or the Eugene downtown organization CORE; it was considered a federal program to be shoved down the throats of the faculty and students of SHS, it was misunderstood, abused, explained, defamed, and ultimately defended and adopted. Basically; CORE evolved into an evaluation of what the school does to teach the four roles the person plays - family, vocation, avocation, and citizen. Night classes, release time with the government picking up the tab for substitutes, faculty meetings, 7 a.m. faculty meetings, visitations, curriculum development, course changes, elective offerings, were some of the results. The year saw the faculty and many of the students deeply involved in making the curriculum at SHS relevant to the needs of the student body.

What is the function of man as teacher?

Should the teacher set himself up as a source of information? In many instances yes, but those who make this their primary concern will run a poor second in this age of automation.

Is the teacher to act as a guide? Should he teach the student how to gain knowledge and make the proper decisions? I think most teachers would accept this role - but, is superior intelligence and the ability to survive enough?

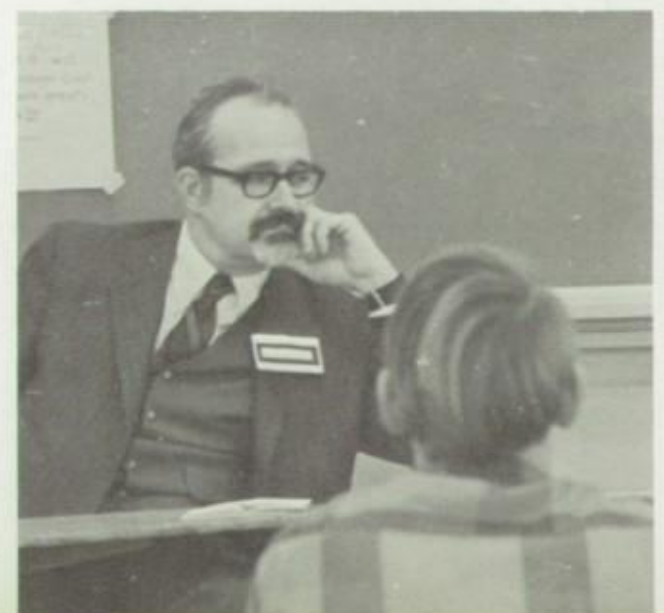

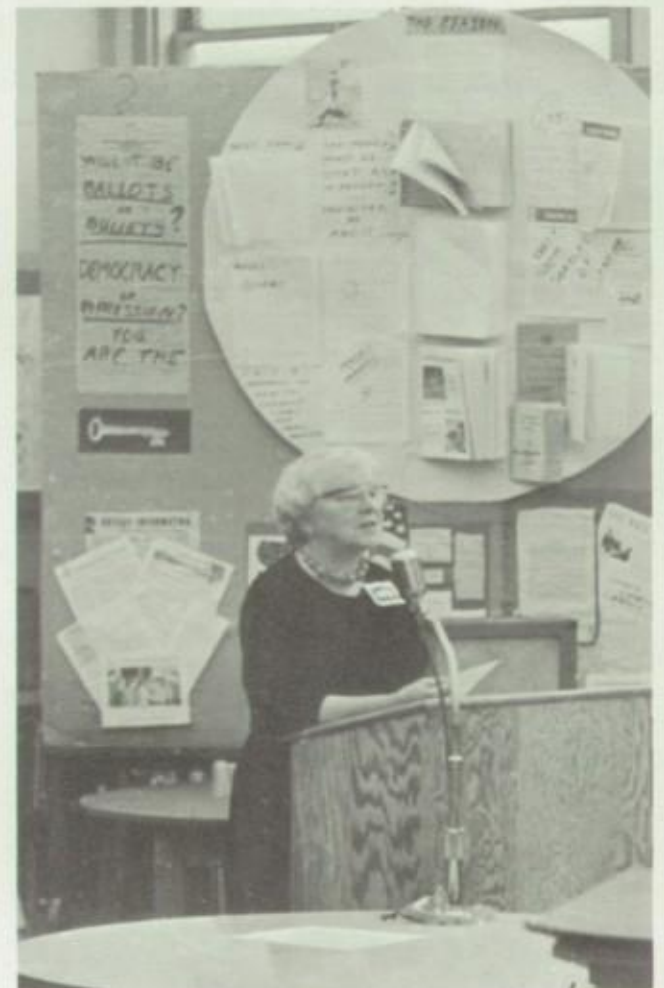

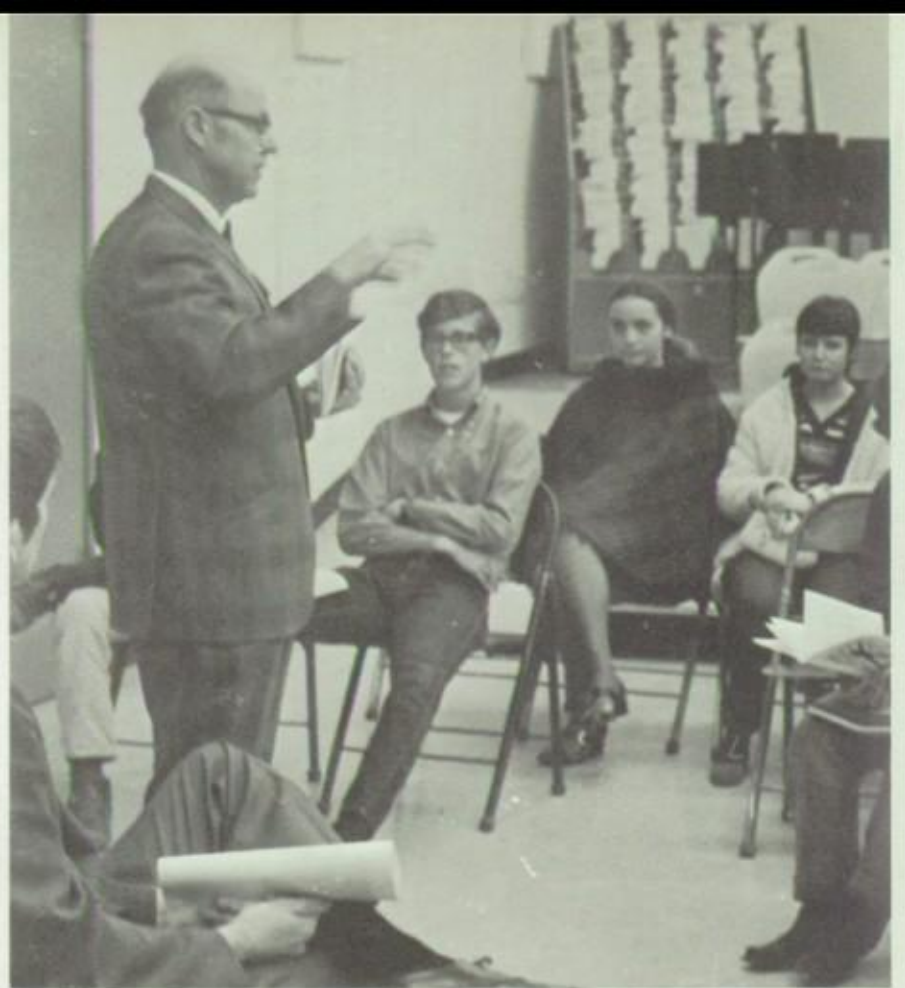

The very fact that we, the most affluent society that the world has ever known, feel the need to take time out on a special day to try to identify problems confronting the Earth or Man, tells me that as a teacher, man has failed.

What should the function of man as teacher become?

To me, at least, it should be one of humanizing man. It should include all those activities that guide the individual toward balance and harmony with nature, his fellow man, and himself.

The school as an institution should not become an instrument of dehumanization. All school activities should build in each individual a strong positive self-image. Anything that tells a person that he lacks worth is destructive and dehumanizing.

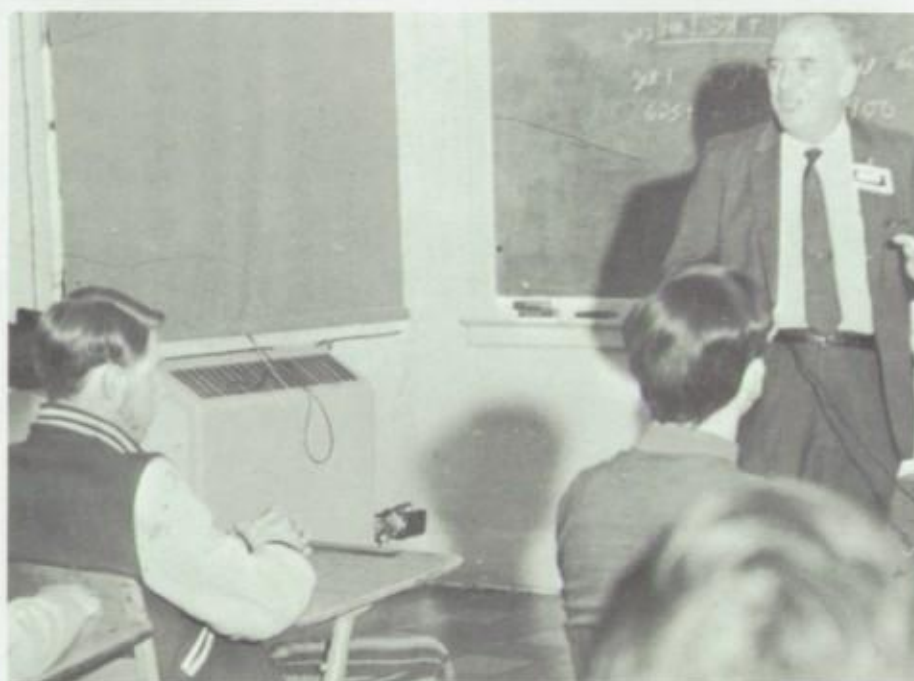

It is great to divide the world on the basis of win/lose, great for the winner that is, but think now - whatever becomes of all those losers? (Morrisette)

Teacher as spectator

Many teacher hours a year are consumed with "extra curricular duty." Announcing at ball games, taking tickets, guarding, coaching, spectating, supporting, conducting, cheering and occasionally crying calls people back at night many times.

Teacher's role in society

In order to define the Teachers' Role in Society, I have to clarify my concept of education and learning. Education is the preparation for living and functioning effectively within the framework of a particular culture. There are three ingredients necessary for learning; a student, something to be learned, and a desire to learn.

In a culture as complex as our own, it is obvious that no single teacher can possibly give a complete education. One of the roles of the teacher then is to evaluate the total educational program in an attempt to fulfill the needs of students to become responsible adults.

Within the classroom, the teacher is concerned with learning. The law provides the students. The teacher is the resource person with certain knowledge of skills to transmit to the student. He organizes and devises the methods he feels will facilitate learning. He tries to create an atmosphere conducive to learning. The third necessary ingredient is the desire to learn. Since all students do not arrive at school with eager anticipations, the teacher then assumes another responsibility - that of conveying the value of learning a particular thing and that of stimulating interest in areas in which students may have preconceived dislikes. Sometimes students lack the desire to learn because of discouragement or low self-esteem. In these cases the teachers' role may well be that of realizing the student as a person with potentialities to be recognized and encouraged and as human beings with personal dignity and worth. Only then will education take place, because a student can learn, but he can not be taught. (Beverly Viers)

The teacher is only too often seen as "teacher" - something akin to a wrench, or a washing machine. He views himself as a teacher of students...(As a wrench to a nut). Teacher as man should be no different than those called "student". He should be a learner.
(Richard Milasich)

The year began with more students than ever before involved in choral music classes, with 70 in the Concert Chorale, 55 girls in the Choraliers, and 50 in the Mixed Choir. The two largest choirs visited Sheldon High after about six weeks of school, as we've done for the past few years, and then the Christmas Concert and assembly were held, with the largest audience ever to attend a choral concert at SHS at the evening concert: around 600.

The list of concerts for the second half of the year was long, including: 2 joint concerts with Willamette High School in February; the Metropolitan Choral Festival (all Eugene-Springfield High Schools) in March; the Jester Hariston Negro Spiritual Festival in April; a tour to San Francisco with the bands for the Kaleidoscope Singers in May; the Annual Pop and Folk Concert in late-May; and Baccalaureate in June (plus various evening performances for the Kaleidoscope Singers).

My thanks to all those kids that worked so hard and sang so well. (Robert Tucker)

Two win trip to Indianapolis

Winners of the State Plymouth Trouble Shooting contest in Portland were Tom Heitmanek and Mike Philpott, SHS seniors coached by auto mechanics instructor John Anderson.

Twenty-eight teams from across the state competed in the event known as the 1971 Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest.

The SHS team uncovered 15 malfunctions deliberately hidden in new cars by automobile repair experts within 33 minutes.

Asked their goal in the national contest, the students gave a one-word reply, "first."

This is the second year in a row SHS will send a team to the national competition. Last year's team placed 17th in a field of 111 teams, according to Anderson. Prizes in the coming national contest include tools and automobile equipment valued at more than $125,000.

Five students plus an advisor went to San Antonio, Texas for the National DECA convention the 16-21 of April. The students were Pam Frost, Barb Clark, Marta Helland, Dave Albright, Tim Foster and our advisor, Steve Flabetich.

Tim Foster won 1st place as Student of the Year at the State Convention and entered in this contest nationally.

Barb Clark won 1st place with her merchandise manual at the state convention, she entered this contest nationally, also. She entered job interview at state and placed 3rd and was able to compete nationally. She placed in the top eight of the nation.

Dave Albright made a Chapter Community Exhibit and won 1st place at state. The exhibit was shipped down for the National Convention, but it got lost and he was unable to set it up to be shown. Pam Frost and Marta Helland went to help with this exhibit.

We met a lot of beautiful people while we were down there. You find out that kids from all over the nation think and do the same things as you do. It made us realize what a small thing Springfield High School DECA is. But when we were all united together as one, we were really something big. We came back with a broader idea about DECA and ourselves. It was a very beautiful experience. It was something we would recommend for anyone to do.

Activities

Times have changed. It is mostly noticable in fashion and hair style. People look younger now, somehow. Interests are still about the same - dances, bands, plays, rallies.

Rally

"I can't really do this. Does it look funny?"

"Well, it doesn't look so bad when you're all out there together."

Conversations such as the preceding are not uncommon....during a practice session of Springfield's rally squad.

The Varsity Rally: Sharon Bushnell, Sandy Collins, Debbie Gibson, Roger Langenberg, Rod Nave, Jeanne Ruff, Sally Smeed, and Terri Wilson, meet every day during sixth period to discuss, practice and, if at all possible, perfect their routines. This sixth period practice counts as their P.E. credit. A lot of time and energy is spent each year to get the rally in top form. Some members declare "it has helped - definitely."

Two members, Rod Nave, and Sharon Bushnell, went to a special training school (in which Rod was the only boy enrolled with 115 girls) in the summer.

Starting July 15th, the entire rally met for two days each week, two hours each day, until August 15th, when they started meeting three days, two hours a day.

The rally is not all routines and coordination however. They must also be financial experts. ("The girls are given a budget they must stay within. . .that is. . .85 dollars. They bought rally outfits used in previous years, to cut down on costs. The boys have a lower budget of 35 dollars.

New advisor for the rally is Linda Miller, who teaches Mass Media, and Lit. of the Press. Of the role as advisor, she says, "I really enjoy working with the girls. . .and boys."

She is an advisor, watching their routines, and giving suggestions.

Whatever else the rally does, its main purpose is performing the important and sometimes difficult task of arousing school spirit. They do this by putting up posters, having pep assemblies, and leading yells at the games.

Hi-Lites is a dance team whose main purpose is to provide half-time entertainment at the ball games. The Hi-Lites have also performed at other functions such as the Shriners Parade, Far West Classic and such.

The Hi-Lites performed one half-time show at Silke, during the Springfield-Sheldon game. It was a dance routine to the Fifth Dimension's song "Save the Country."

They exchange with other schools, (Bend and Sunset) where they attend classes, get to know the girls, and exchange ideas.

The Hi-Lites spent at least 50 hours during the summer working together and are also using first period as a practice session. Sometimes they have special practices before performances at one of the girls' houses.

It took a lot of practice just to get on Hi-Lites. The girls trying out were asked to learn a routine for preliminary judging. Those who made it past preliminaries performed another routine and were judged by Faculty members, old Hi-Lite members, and students from the University who were dance majors or rally members.

The Hi-Lite girls have a budget of 45 dollars to provide their own outfits and they generally make their own. They have two different outfits, one for football and one for basketball season.

Advisor for Hi-Lites this year is Mrs. Susan Rogers, who says, "We really have a tremendous group of girls this year...They're all enthusiastic."

When interviewing Hi-Lites you are literally attacked. In fact, you don't start the interview, they do. For a few minutes you just stand and take in all as they confide in you everything from "I have naturally curly hair" to "Just call me Robin Weird."

When you finally assert yourself and ask the inevitable question: "How do you feel about the school spirit at Springfield?" you get a variety of answers, but most members agree that it is improving.

"I think we're pretty good," says Pam Hopper, "We're getting better because at first we didn't really care."

They feel there is more spirit at home games, especially if we are winners. "Everybody is more engrossed in the game if the team is doing good," commented Robin Ware.

Even though Hi-Lites means a lot of time and practice, like all school groups, it is also a lot of fun.

1971's theatrical production at SHS was "Stalag 17", the tale of a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany, in WWII.

The curtain opens with the death of two of the prisoners in an escape attempt. There is reason to suspect that their deaths were due to a spy. Sefton, not liked by his fellow prisoners, is the prime suspect.

To compound the drama, a new prisoner, Dunbar, is charged with sabotage. As more and more evidence points to Sefton as the spy, Sefton knows he must find the real spy, and save Dunbar before he is taken away.

At the height of the action, the real spy is discovered, but now the men are faced with the problem of getting Dunbar out. The only way is to use the spy as a diversion. Throwing him out into the compound at night will draw every guard tower in camp, while Dunbar and Sefton escape.

"Stalag 17" was directed by Rick Milasich, who also took the part of Harry. An unusual play, "Stalag 17" called for an all-male, 21-part cast. "Stalag 17" was presented April 22-24, as a highly successful production. '71 Log 58

*Homecoming

This years Varsity football team was not as successful as fas as victorys go, but by the end of the season it had established itself as a spirited bunch of guys who learned a lot and plan to use what they learned.

The low point of the season came not following the Millers 73-6 loss to South Eugene, but after the 34-26 Fall Festival victory over Willamette.

After that contest several players threatened to quit following a flare-up during the haltime of the Wil-Hi game.

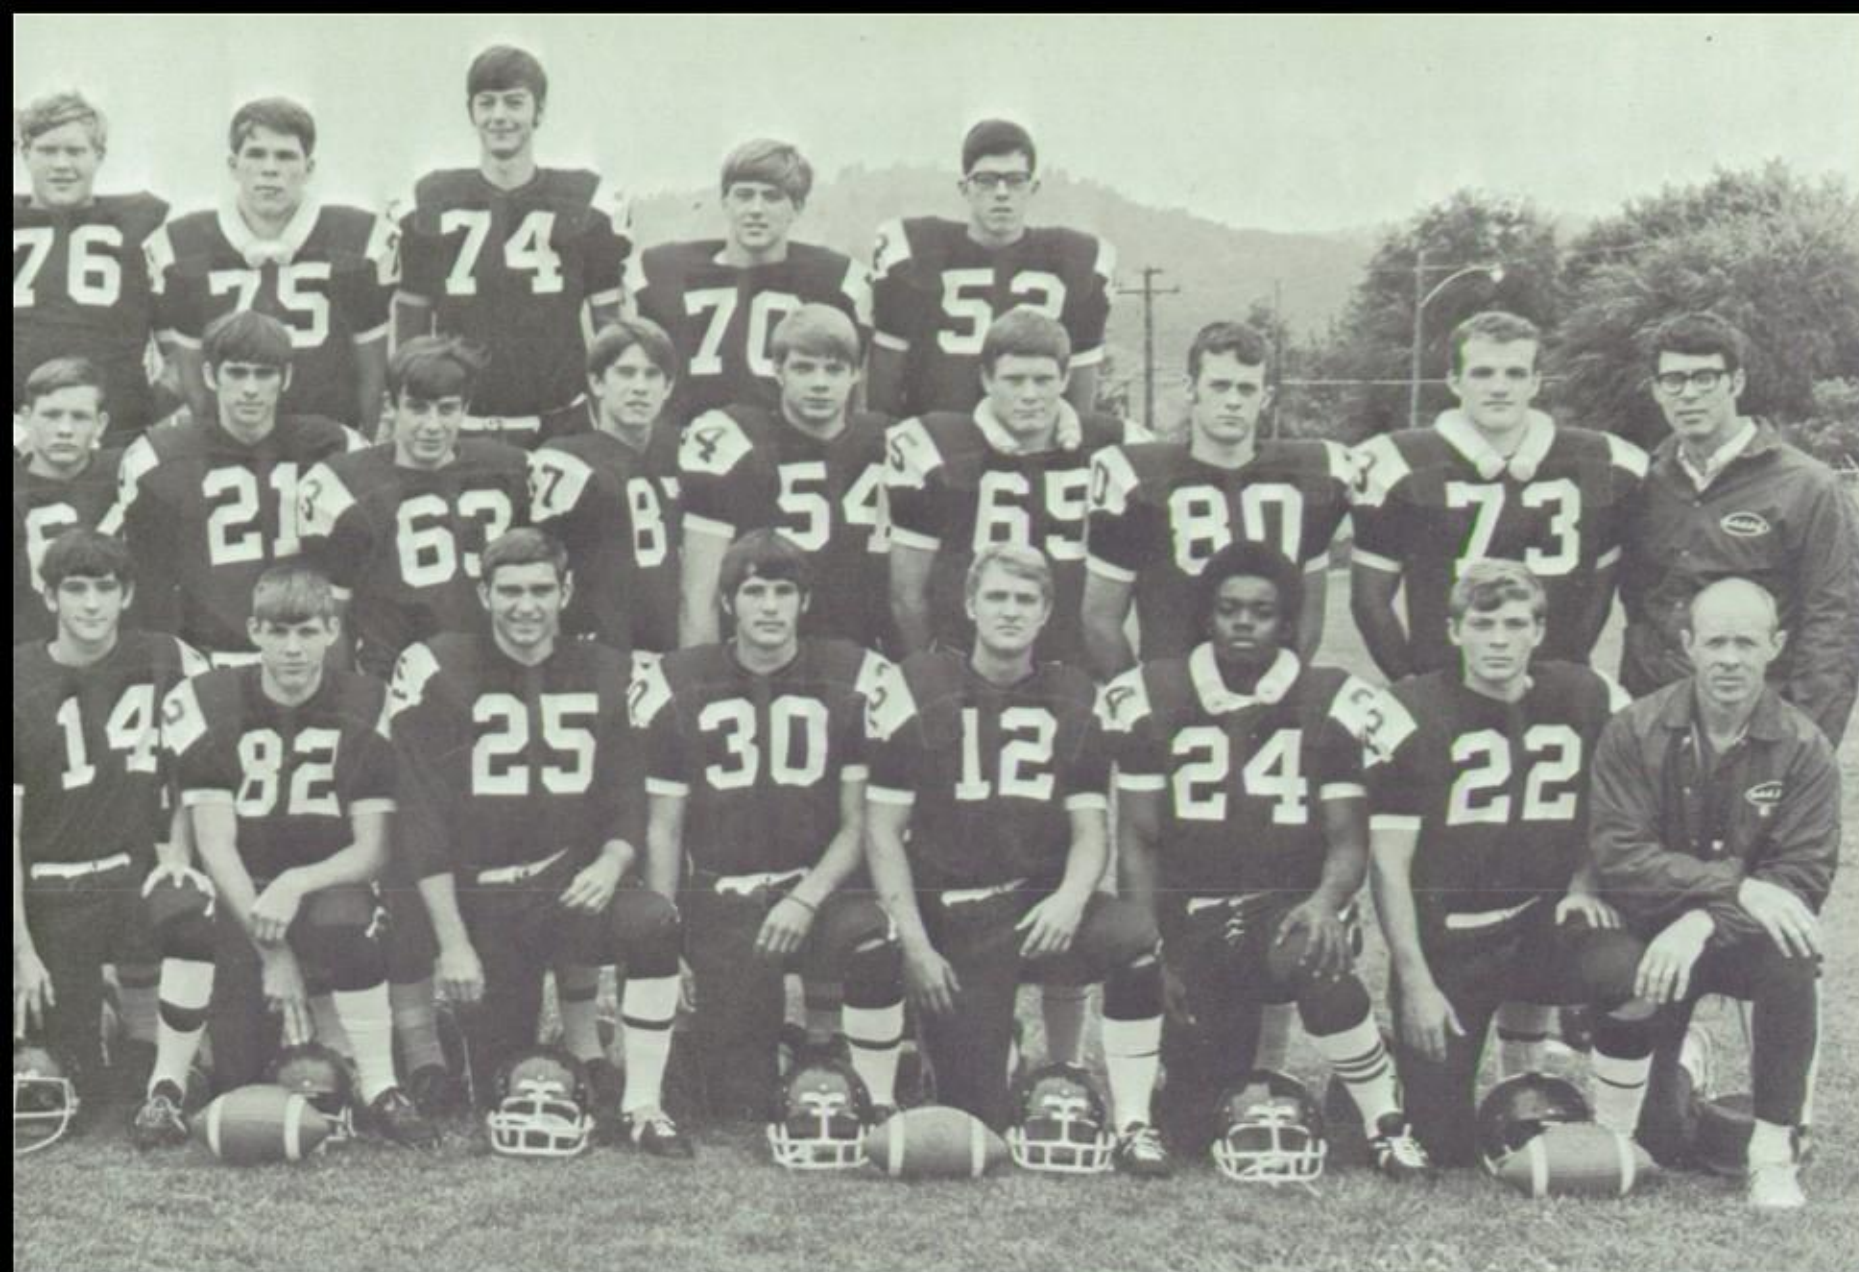

Only three players quit at the time and one player quit following the North Eugene game. Supposedly all problems were worked out and the Millers are prepared for next year.

In the Fall Festival game, the Millers were sparked by Forrest Clayton's four touchdowns, including a 90 yard kickoff return to win. Miller workhorse, Ray Cephus, added the other touchdown for SHS.

Millers ready themselves for second half of Fall Festival game against Willamette.

Coach F. Morris talks with Mike Baxley, Jim Millard and Corky Brown. Baxley and Millard were late additions to the Varsity squad. Along with Vic Miglioretto, Paul Dow, Doug Jordan, Ellis Clayton, Lance Parks and Steve Bour.

Lower left-One of the things that plagued the Millers during season ... a dropped pass. Other things included fumbles, penalties, and touchdowns, the lack of for the Millers and a surplus for the opponents.

J.V. Football

Springfield's J.V. football season was a losing season but a very interesting one.

The J.V. team experimented with different plays and different sets which made the junior Millers something very exciting to watch.

Included was a spread formation, in which they literally spread their players across the field.

The J.V.'s also tried a no huddle offense in which they could run five different plays, and later ten without a huddle.

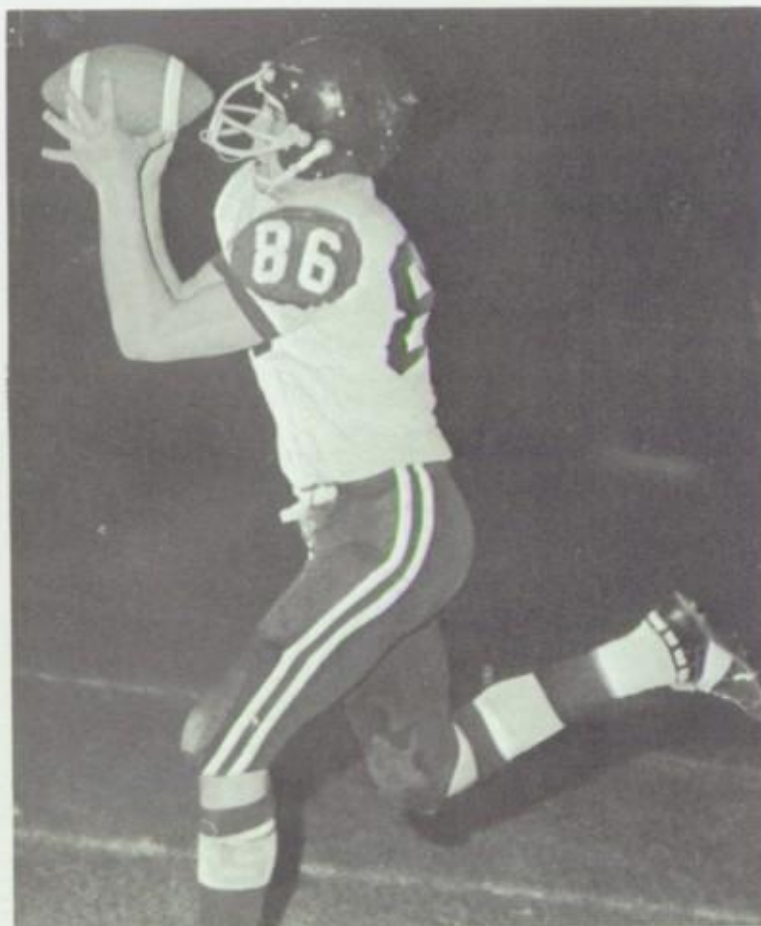

Also the junior Millers used a pro set offense in which they moved one of the backs to a flanker position.

Coach for the exciting J.V. team was Ron Molony, whom we wish to congratulate on making the season very interesting for both the players and fans.

The sophomore team was made up of all sophomores of the junior varsity team. They were the most successful of the three football teams, with a 4-2 record, beating Thurston twice.

The sophomores used the same sets and experimented with the same plays as the JV's Ron Molony coached the sophomore team along the with J.V.'s.

Miller Touchdowns - Dick Risseuw (86) scores against North Bend; Forrest Clayton (25) picks up six against Willamette.

Doing well seemed to be a habit this year for the girls' Cross Country team.

In their first meet at the Springfield Country Club, they competed against Sheldon, Willamette, and South, and finished second behind Sheldon. Michele Skinner finished first for Springfield and second overall.

At the district meet, running against Sheldon and Willamette, Springfield placed third on the strength of Michele Skinner's third place finish.

Much of this years team can be expected back next fall.

Cross Country

As this years Cross Country did so well as opposed to past year's, many questions arose, such as: why were there more wins and why did a guy come out.

The reason there were more wins this year could be attributed to the fact that there was more talent, more desire, and more team pride.

There is a great deal of work involved in all athletics, but most dedicated long-distance runners run seven days a week to maintain or improve their speed. Whereas, most of the other sports operate on a five or six day week.

A guy comes out to gain recognition, to build up his body, to taste competition and to help his school.

To build up his body, a long-distance runner must run many miles, sometimes in rain, extreme heat, and over rough ground. This, combined with calisthenics and sprints, will build a guys body up to a high level of conditioning.

The test of the weeks training comes on Friday when the guy lines up with the runner from his school and one or more other schools for a race.

During the race, the runner makes an effort to finish as high as his capability will allow him. There comes a moment in every race when each runner has to fight off pain and ask himself if he's got it. A guy's desire can be measured by the ferocity with which he answers this question and the effort he puts out to achieve his goal.

By coming out for athletics he demonstrates not only a will to better himself, but pride for his school's image in the eyes of others.

His rewards are few and his sacrifices many, but the Cross Country man gets what he wants from the effort.

Swim

From Water Baby to Tadpole to Porpoise to Beginner-for those of us who made it that far, the swim team is made up of the people who went beyond the Swimmer-in-deep-water-for-15-feet-then-return-to-the-edge-stage.

Getting up at what? 5:30 in the morning? But only twice a week. While walking up the gray steps the crispness of the morning startles you. Maybe you're the first to arrive and you jingle the doors till someone comes to open them. The door opens with a loud noise in the quiet morning. You exchange smiles and you sort of walk in half asleep. The smell of chlorine fills your head and you let out a groan. Everybody groans. Groan after groan. Then everybody trudges, trudge-trudge to the pool deck.

The pool is quiet and your bare feet pad the damp cement. Waiting for the first soul to plunge in has become part of the ritual. You look at each other and can't help but laugh at your hesitancy.

Someone puts on a get-down-to-business look then dives in. . . "Pooosh." "Zing!" your body feels then a kind of "Ahhh" as you stroke slowly. You're awake now. Refreshed. You look up and admire the beauty of the sunrise as you swim toward it.

By the finish of early morning practice, the steamed windows are full of primitive finger drawings, and everyone sees through reddened eyes. In an hour or so your hair dries and you find yourself in a chair, in a classroom. A longer day is yours, but also a cold wet suit to climb into two afternoon practices a week.

Nearly every afternoon you get the to place where you're totally exhausted - and with red eyes, red face, and a tired body, you give still more. At last you struggle to pull yourself out of the pool. Every muscle is entirely relaxed. Home - hot food and bed - is pleasant sounding. You sleep soundly.

Wrestlers Fifth In District

Springfield High School's 1971 wrestling team captured fifth place in the district championships, for the highest SHS finish in five years.

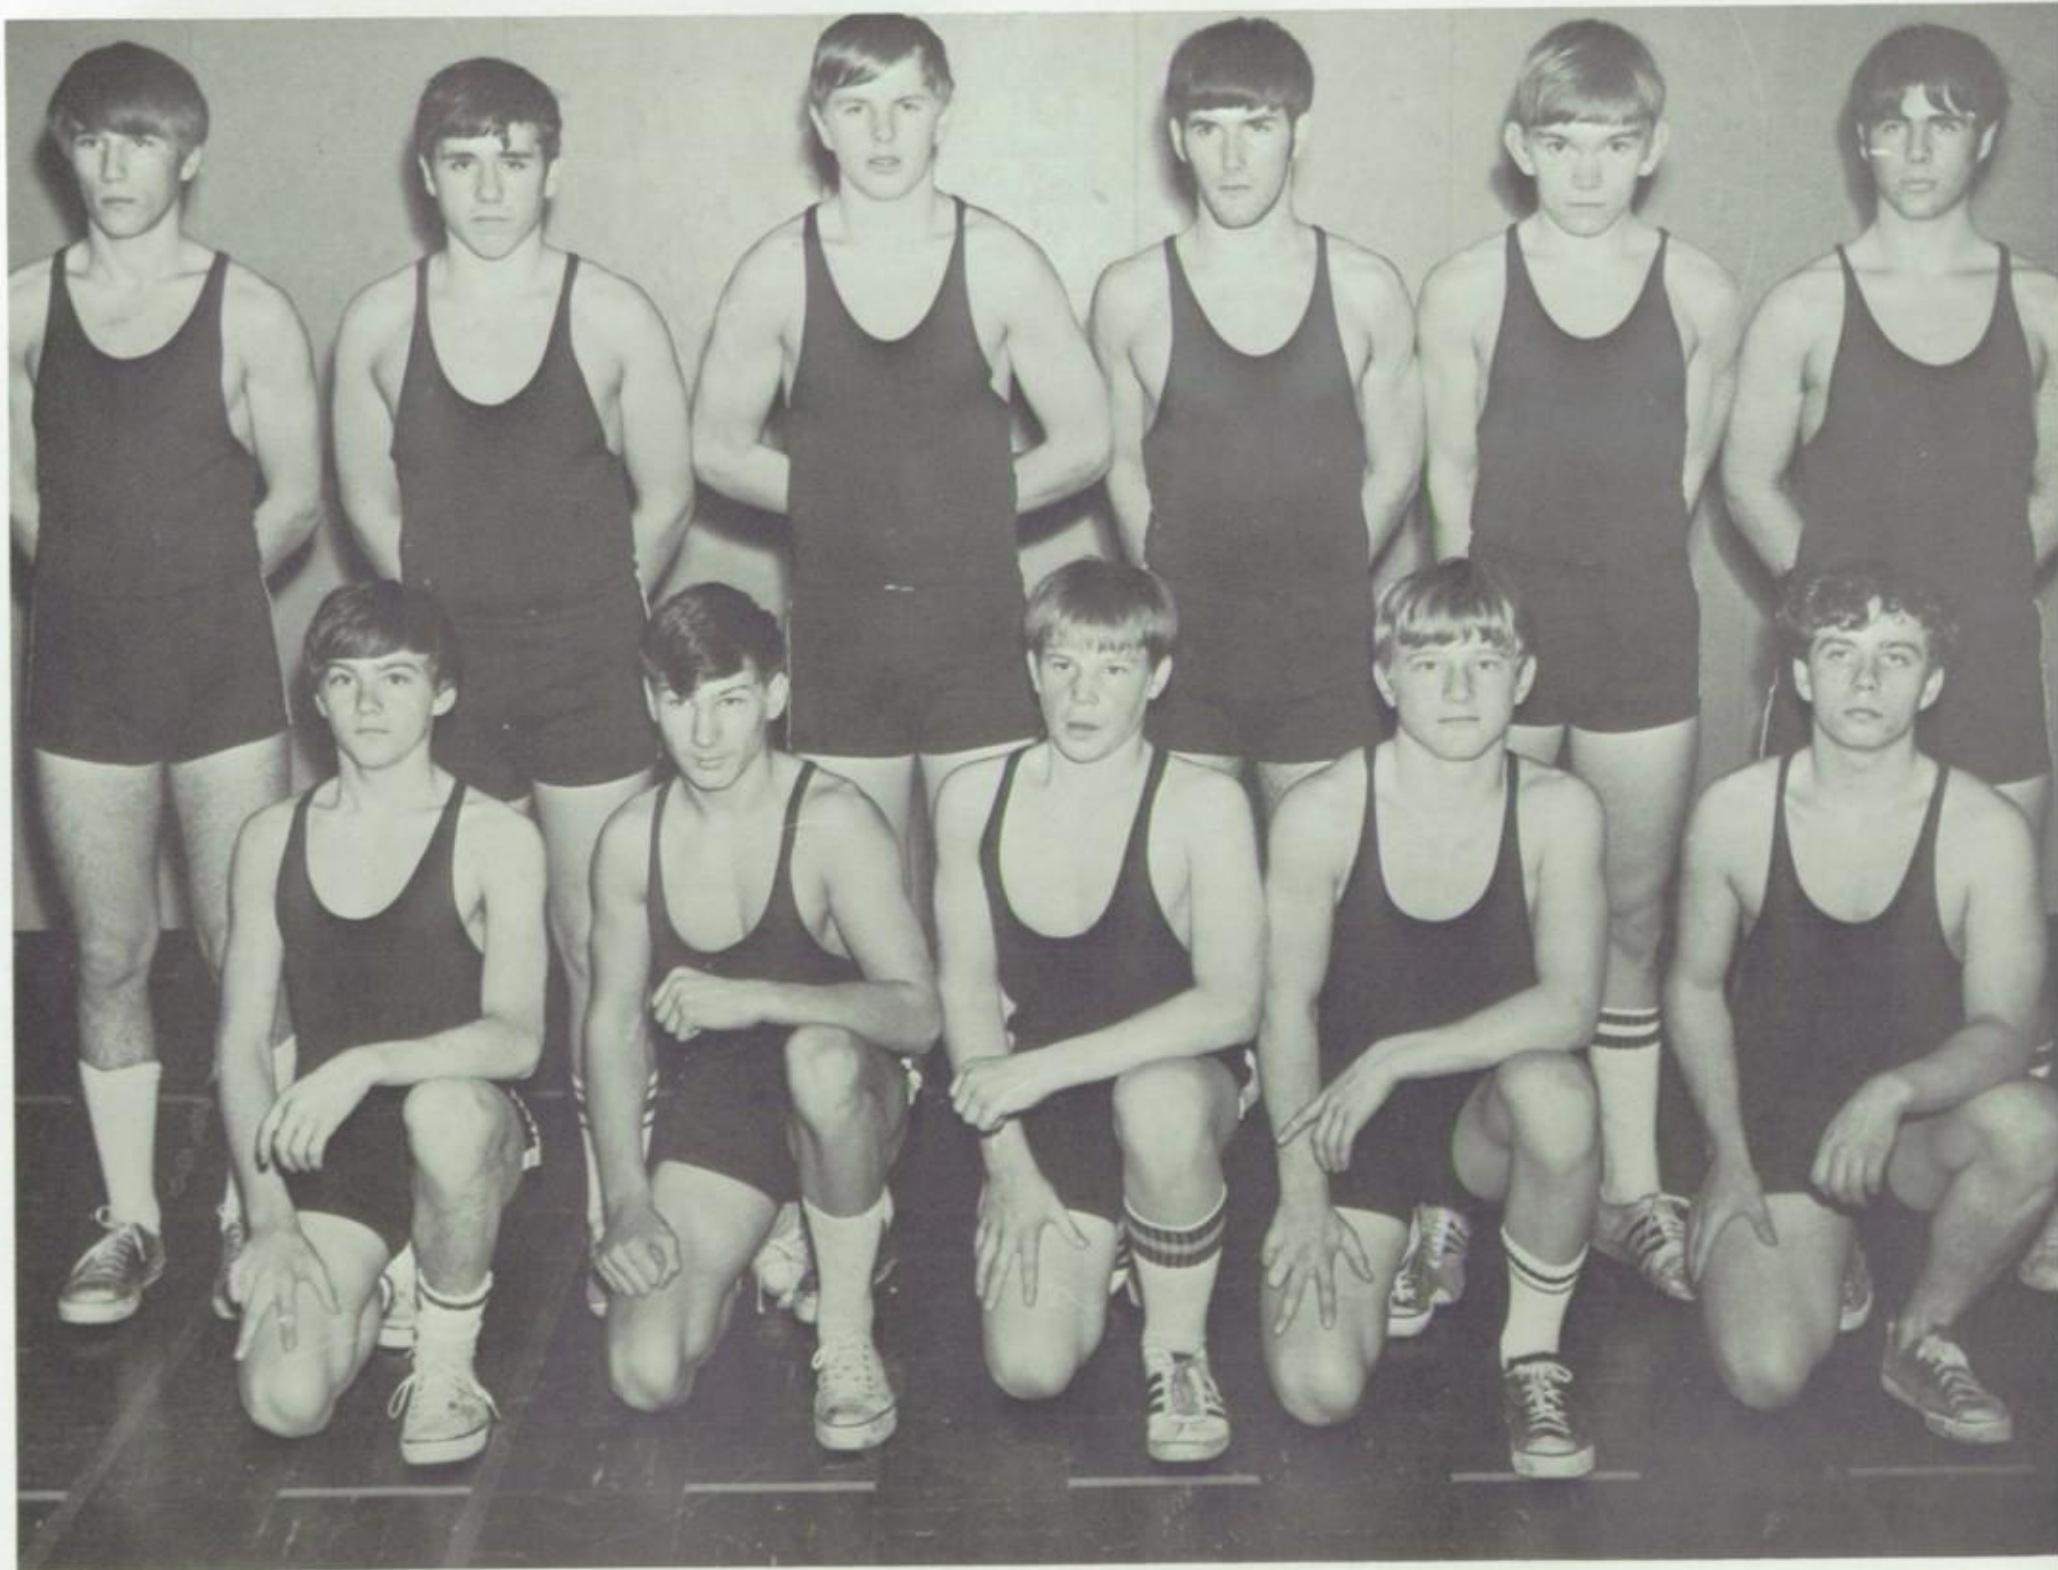

The Millers were led this year by co-captains, Curt Crone and Greg Hudson. They were the only seniors on the squad.

Hudson finished third in the 191 pound division, at the district meet while Crone was fifth in the 136 pound class.

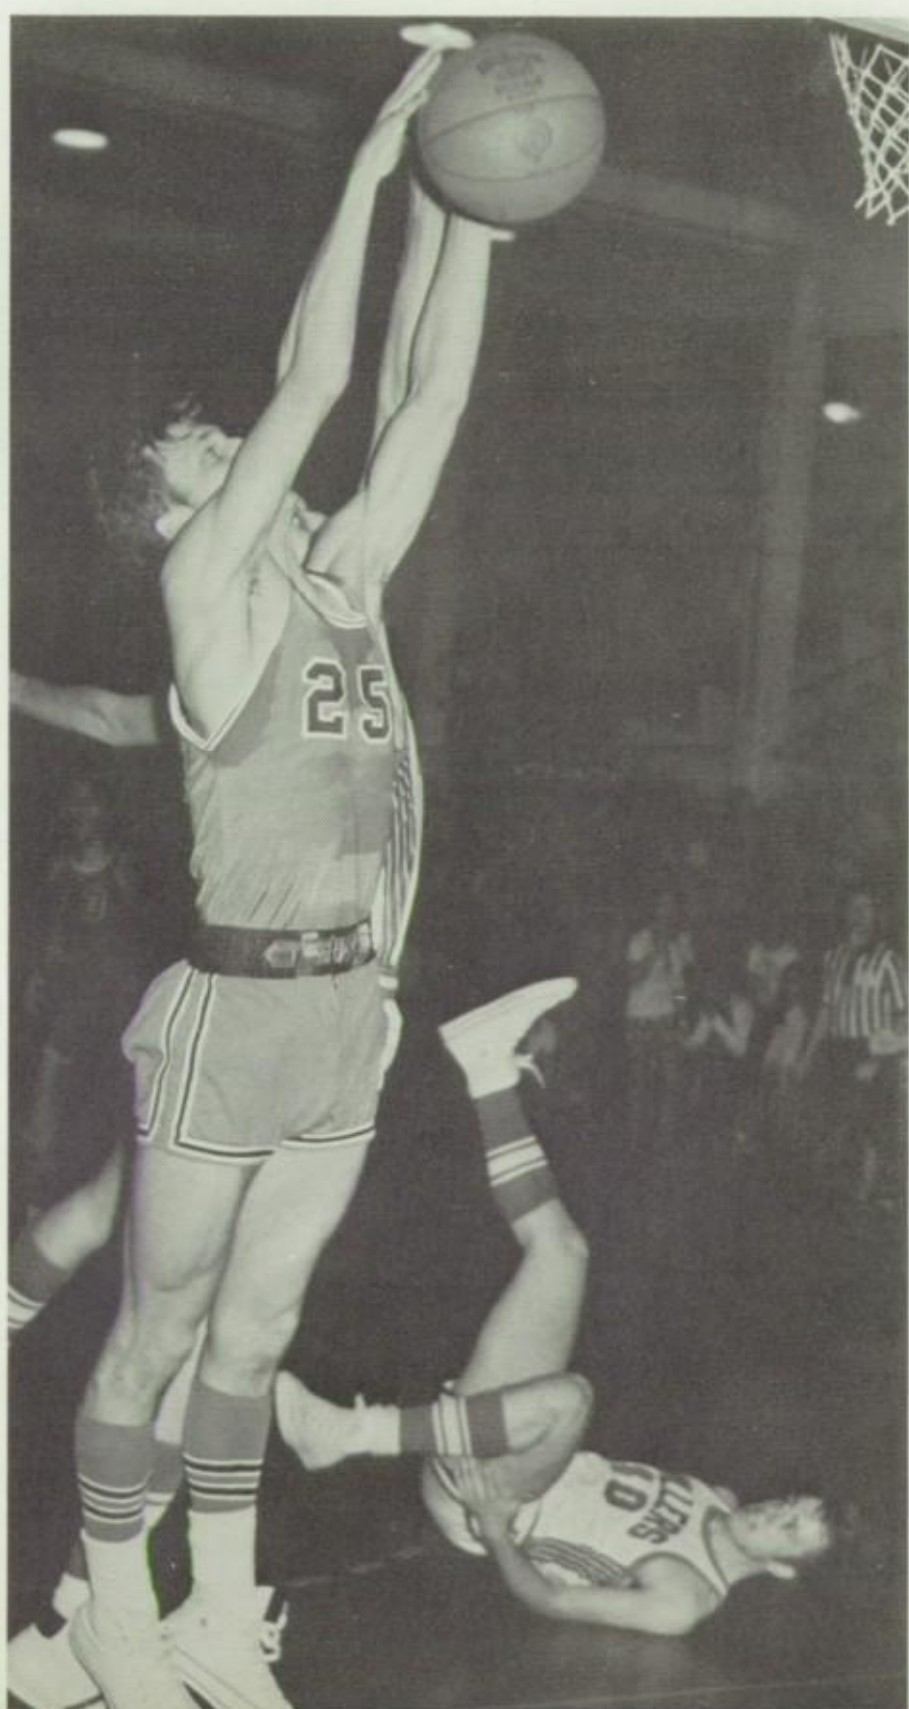

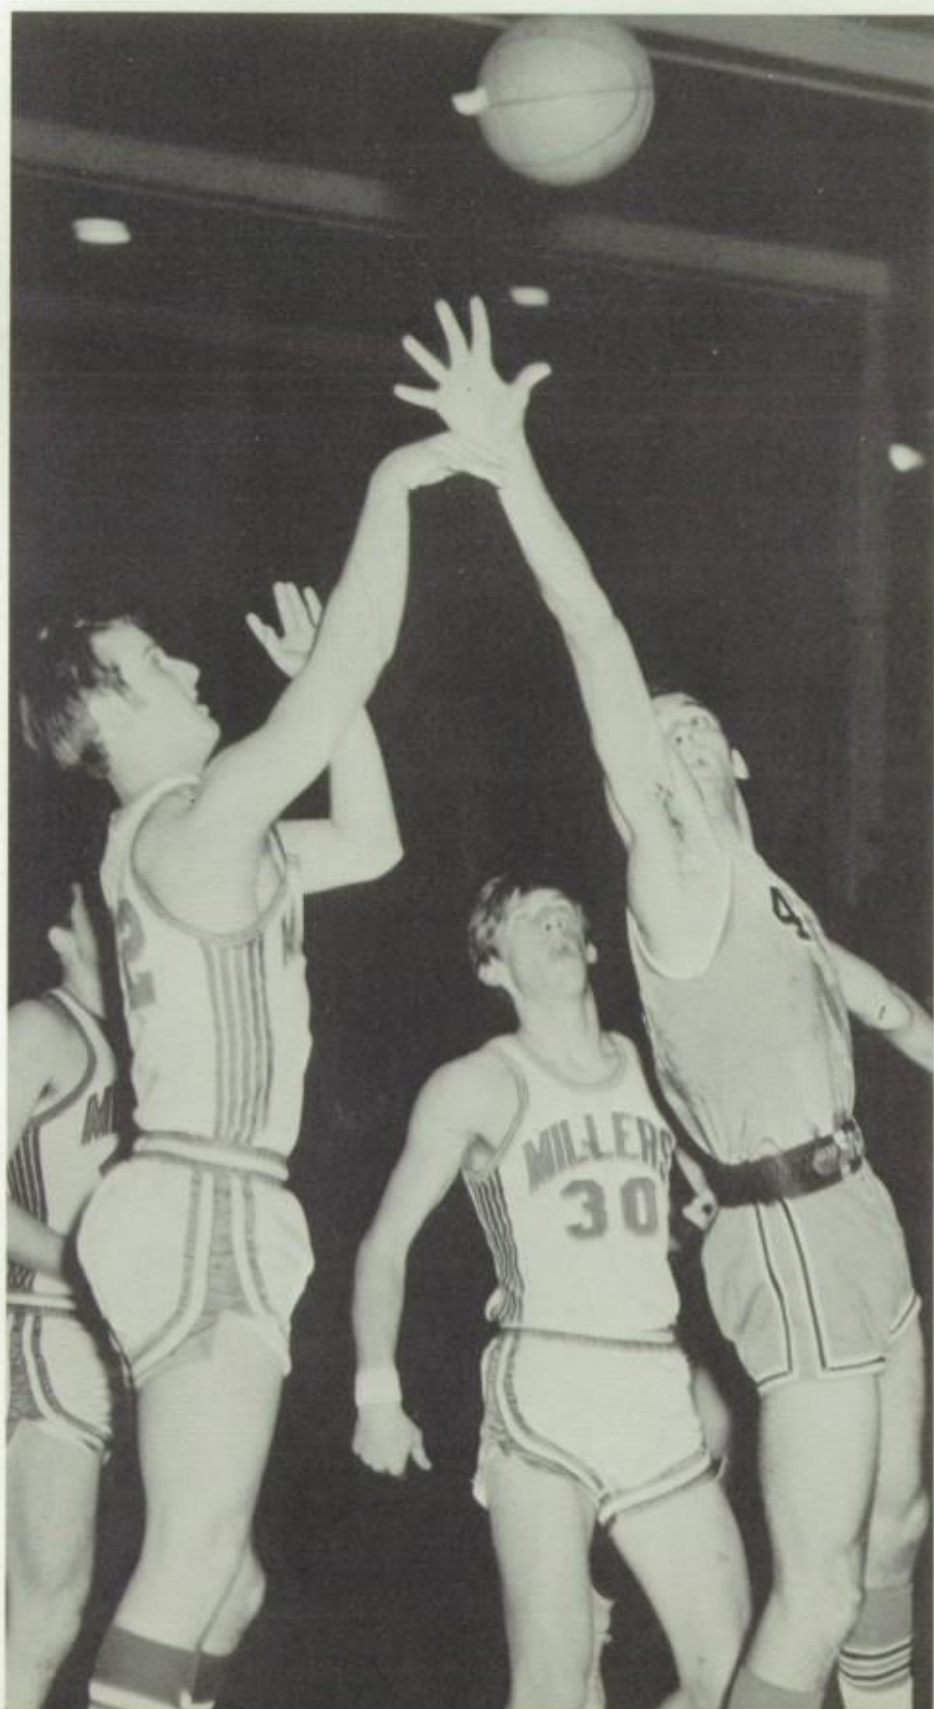

Highest finisher at the district meet was Bob Meade, wrestling at 106 pounds, represented the Miller team in the state meet at OSU.

Other high finishers were Randy Lewellen, with a third place in the 168 pound division, and Mike Baxley in the 148 pound class capturing a fourth place.

Millers turn in 9-13 record

A predominately junior basketball team finished the year with a 9 win 13 loss record.

The Millers showed promise for the future with some bright performances by juniors, Dave Allbritton, Rod Buck and Roger Jordan among others.

Allbritton scored 31 points in one game, Buck's high was 25 and Jordan's 21 points.

Ironically the top junior on the team, Bob Rehwalt, led the league in scoring but quit the team with four games left to play.

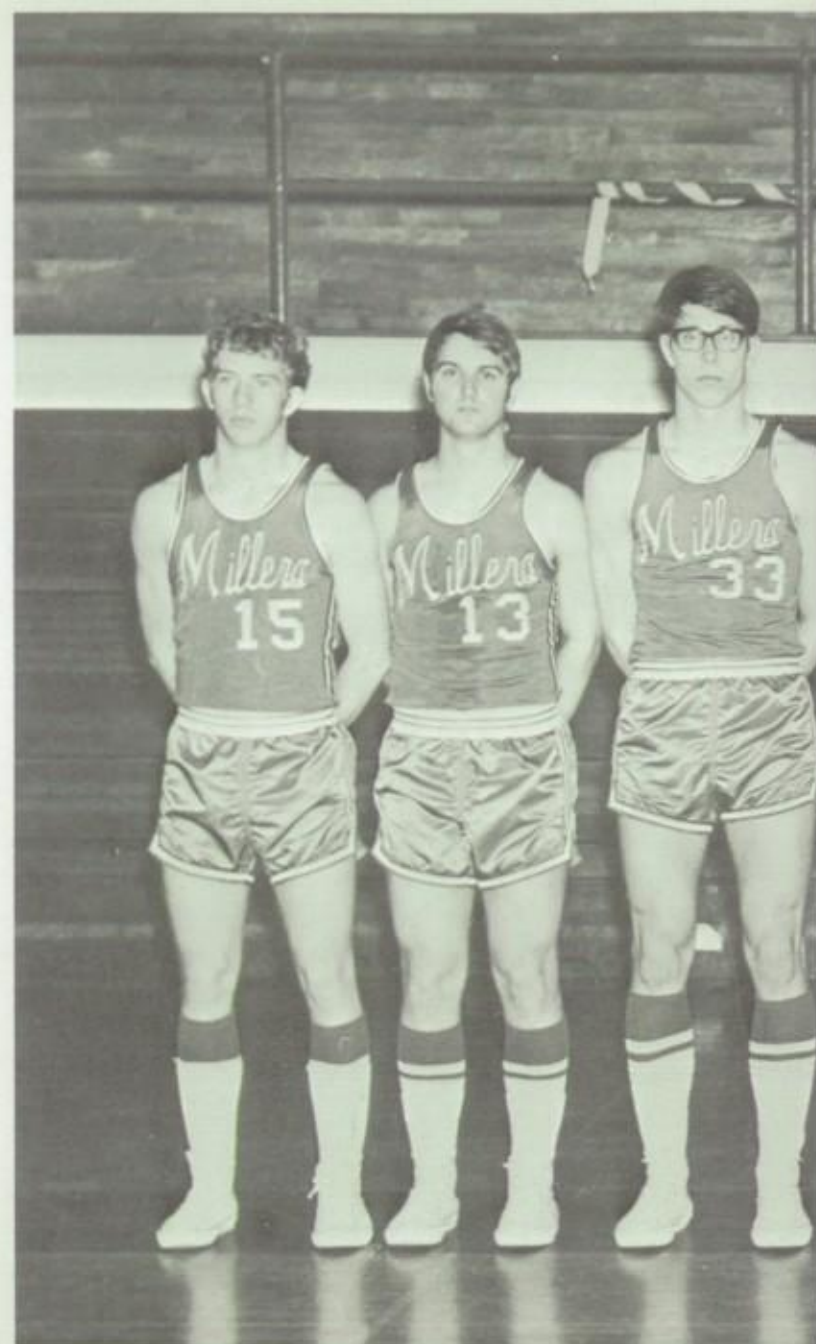

The Millers had a chance to go to state midway through the second-half when they had a 4-1 record. With the loss of Rehwalt SHS' chances went down the drain. The Millers lost all of the next four games; in overtime to South, by six to Sheldon, and by three to both North Bend and Thurston.

At the awards banquet held the week after the season's end, Alex Iwaniw was given the "Most Valuable Senior award" while Roger Jordan received the "Most Inspirational Player" award.

* Benson was the eventual state champion. North Eugene, whom the Millers beat twice finished third in the state.

The Junior Varsity is made up of sophomores and juniors who need additional experience before playing on the varsity team. This year's team was coached by Dick Place.

High point in the season was the 82-57 season ending victory over Thurston. The Millers used a balanced and heavy scoring attack to breeze to the win.

SHS was led in that game by Dick Risseuw's 19 points. He was followed by Forrest Clayton's 13, Dan Kalstad, 12; Roger Langenberg, 12; Dan Cloyes, 12; and Steve Blanton with 10. All were juniors.

Other bright spots included two wins over Marshfield, 54-37 and 57-47 and opening season victories over Roosevelt 49-48 and the Dalles 77-49.

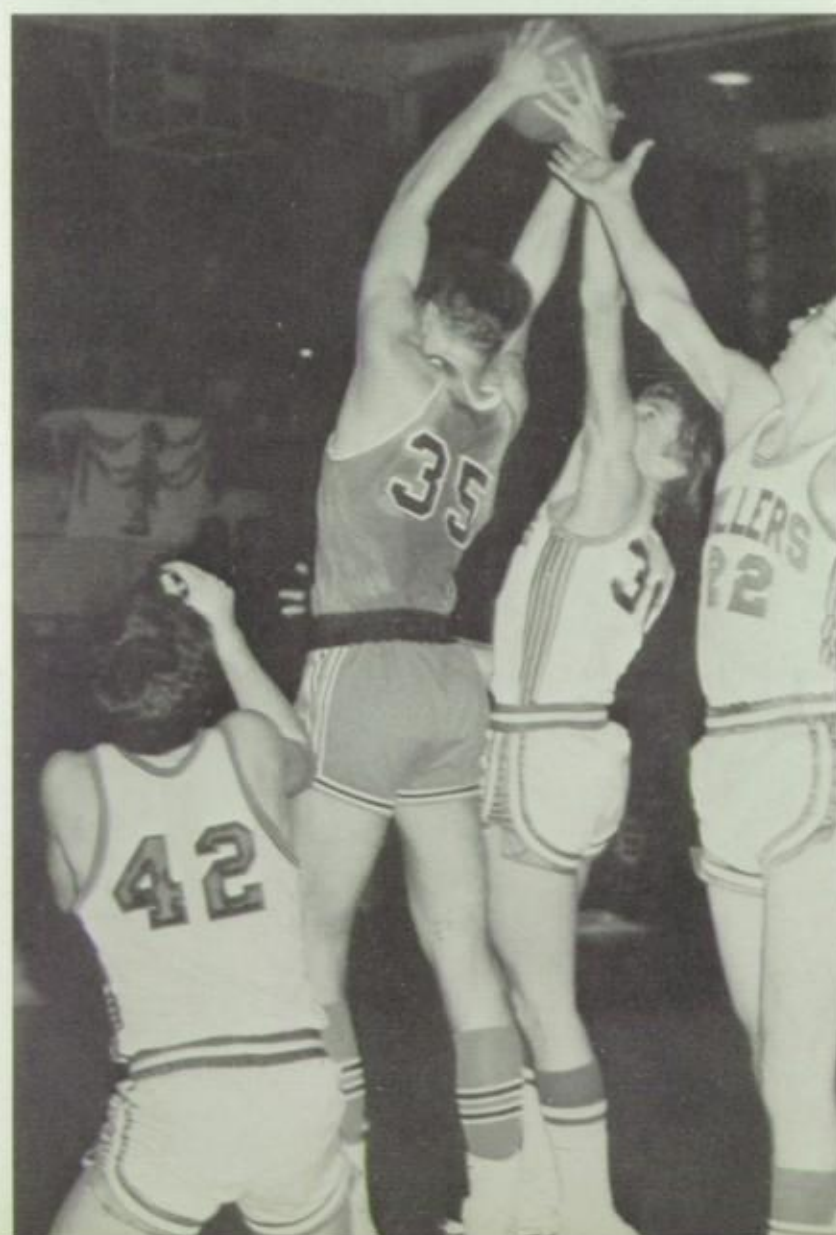

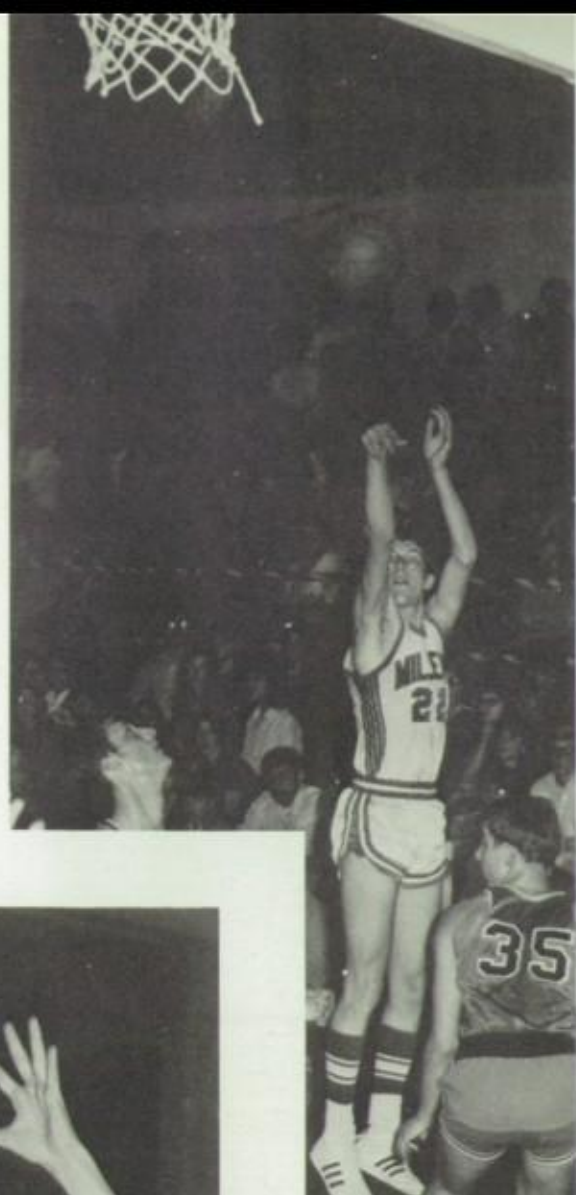

The final J.V. record was 11 wins and 11 losses with a 9-9 league record.

This years girls basketball team won all but one of their games this year. They finished with a 5 win - one loss record, beating Willamette, Churchill, Mohawk, Sheldon, and Thurston. The lone loss was to South Eugene in the first game of the year.

Although not having the height that the other teams had, the Miller girls worked an effective fast break to topple their opponents.

Boys Gym Added

Springfield High finally got a boys gymnastics team in 1971 to join the girls in the acrobatics sport.

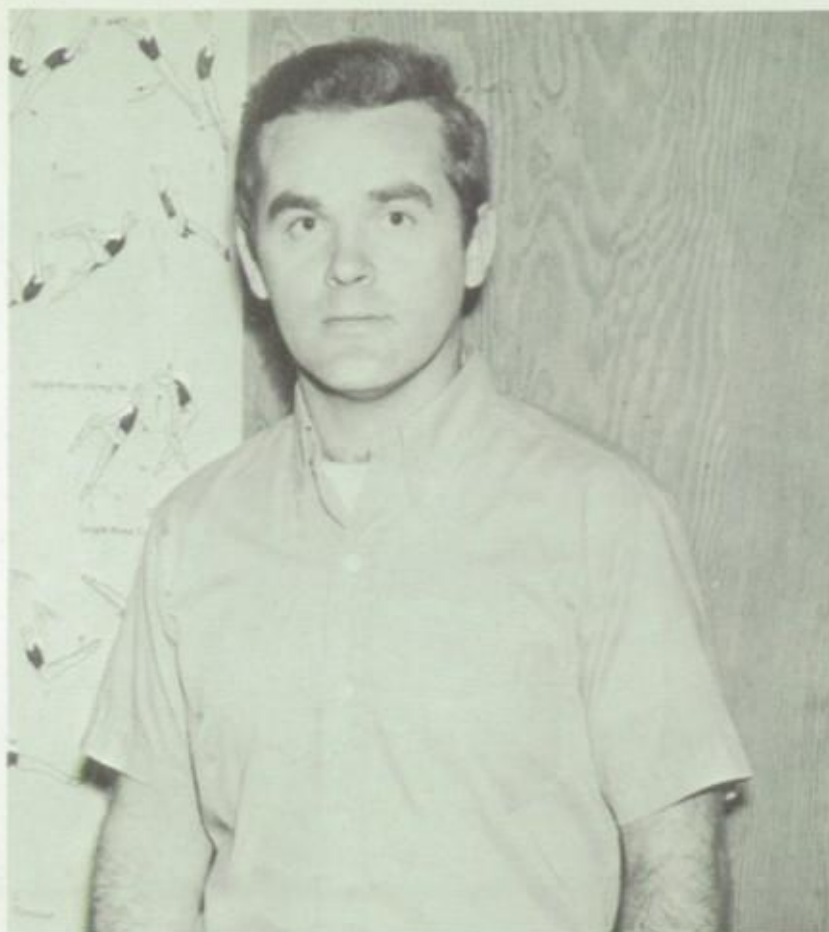

As in all first year sports the team had problems. The main problem at SHS, was the gymnasium area at Springfield which wasn't safe enough to conduct a gymnastics meet in. All home meets had to be held at Thurston High School.

Another problem was that the team didn't have any returning lettermen. Even the seniors were only sophomores in experience.

So the pressure fell on the girls team for a good showing at the district meet. But it just wasn't to be the Millers year.

One SHS girl suffered an injury before the meet, another during a warm-up, and the Millers top prospect made a minor mistake losing enough points to have to drop out of competition.

It was a very poor year, to say the least, for Springfield High baseball this year.

To start it off it was one of the rainiest springs on record. The team had 14 pre-season games cancelled including nine during spring vacation.

Then when the Millers started league action they had three-fourths of the starting infield out from injuries.

After getting the rest of the infield back SHS won three games in a row before a band trip took its toll. Six players went to 'Frisco with the band and Kaleidoscope Singers. The team won only one game from then on, that a 3-2 extra inning over Churchill.

The Millers finished the season with a 9 win, 14 loss overall record and a 4-10 league record.

Leading hitter was Forrest Clayton with a .286 league average. Clayton was the only Miller selected to the all-star team.

Randy Lewellen hit .288 overall to lead the team for the year.

This years J.V. squad had a fairly good season, finishing two games above .500 with eight wins and six losses.

At one point the junior Millers won six games in a row, before having several players called up to the varsity team. As in the junior varsity basketball season high point in the season was victory over Thurston. In fact the SHS J.V.'s beat the Colt team both times they played. In the first game the host Millers ran away from the Colts, winning 9-1. The second time around it was a little tougher. Trailing 2-1 going into the seventh inning SHS exploded for six runs and won going away 7-2.

The Miller J.V.'s also ended the season on a good note, defeating Cottage Grove 5-0. Top pitchers for the year were Cory Farstad with 4 wins, two losses, and Allen Stugelmeyer with a 3-1 record.

There were four home runs hit by this year junior varsity. At Willamette the Millers had a field day with Steve Bour, Ron Simmons and Stugelmeyer hitting HR's. Kirk Johnson added the other shot in the final game against Cottage Grove.

Although the times weren't very good the attitude of this years track team was great, which is what athletics is all about anyway.

The members of this years team set high goals for themselves and worked very hard in an attempt to attain them.

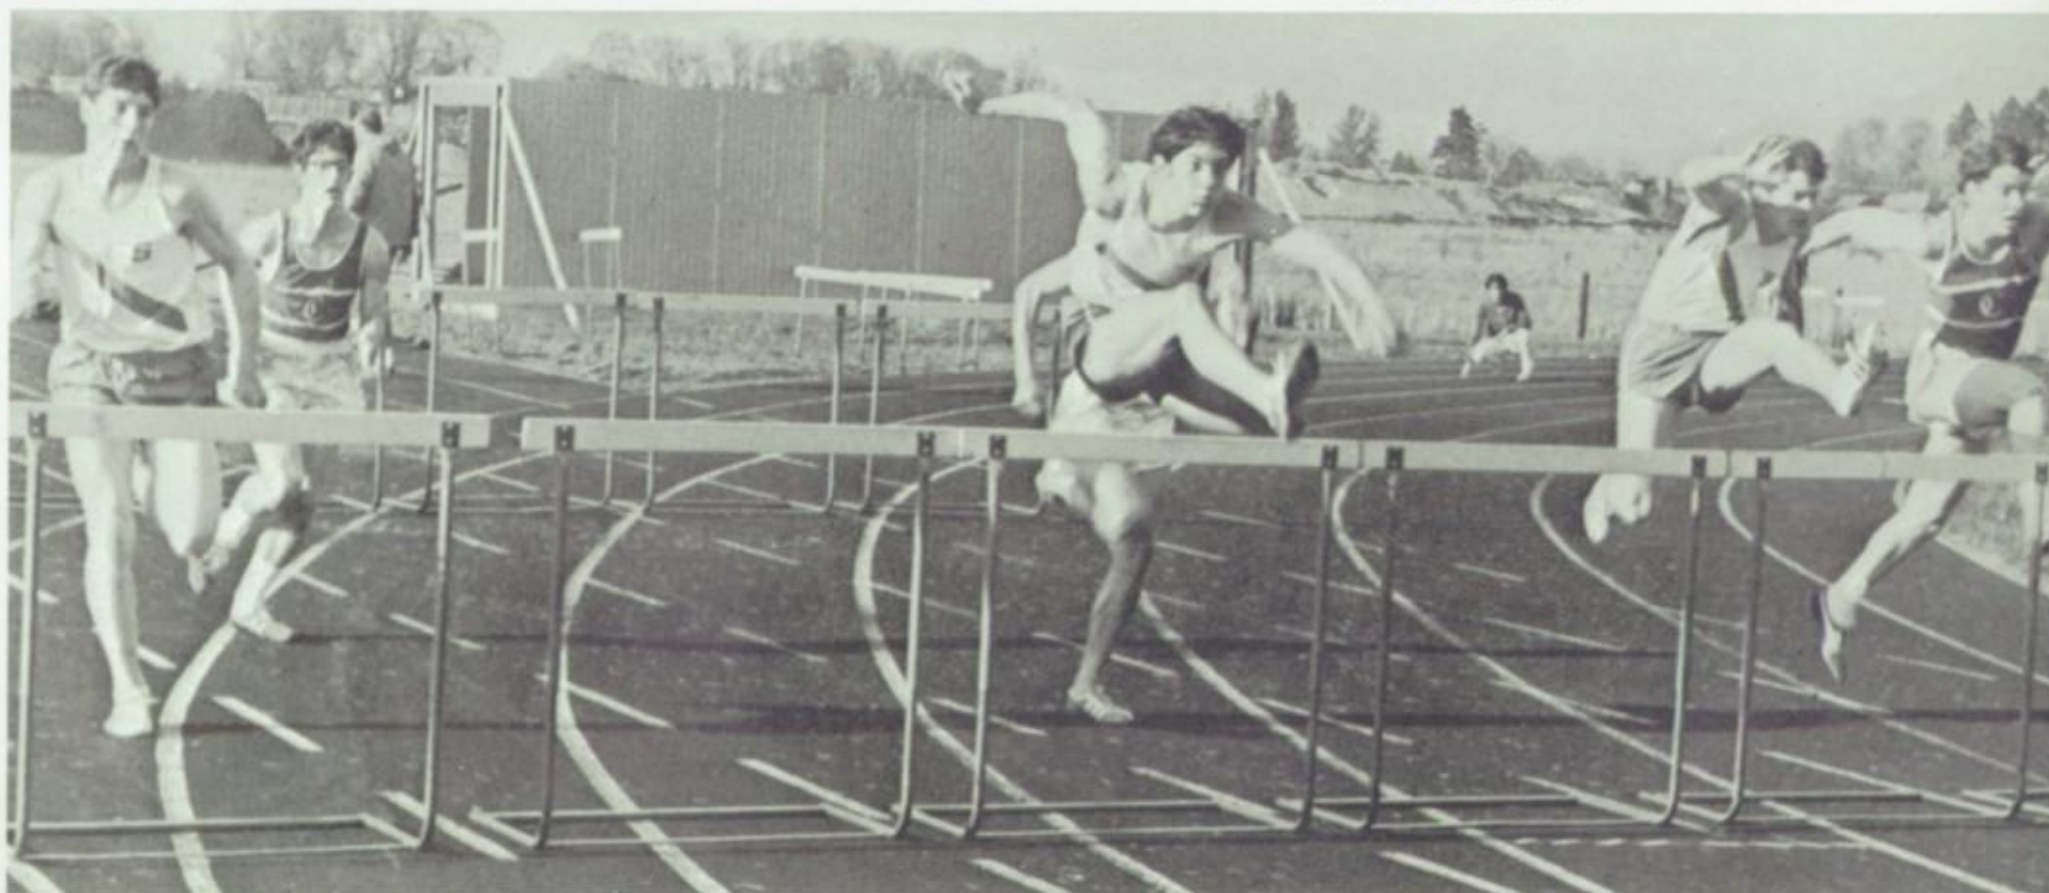

With the district and state meets to go there is still a chance for some of them to reach their goals.

This years team started out winning their first three meets, all fairly easily, before running into trouble. The Millers stopped Willamette 89-56, Sheldon 84-61, and Churchill 84-61 before running into a tough South Eugene team. The Axemen, with some of the top marks in the state easily stopped the Millers 100-45.

Next was a very tough Bend team, one of the favorites in their district. The meet was held in the high altitude at Bend and SHS lost 93-52. In a three-way meet with North Eugene and Cottage Grove, favorites along with South for the title, the Millers were dropped 85-60 and 82-63.

The annual twilight meet was held with Thurston with both teams turning in several "bests". The colts won 84-61.

Both tennis teams were hurt by inexperience this year.

Some of the players on the '71 squad had never touched a tennis racket before and all but a few had had no previous interscholastic competition.

There was a lot of desire, though, and a fine attitude despite conditions as they were.

Top players on the boys team were juniors Dan Kalstad and Ron Simmons. Simmons was only a part time player, playing both tennis and baseball. Their doubles team advanced to third round in the district tournament.

Senior Sue Motsinger was the top girl's player. She was selected the outstanding player on the girl's team at the end of the season.

Coaches were Herb Hyde for the boys and Susan Rogers for the girls.

Springfield High captured its highest golf finish in several years with a fourth place finish at district.

The Millers followed South Eugene, Sheldon and Marshfield in District.

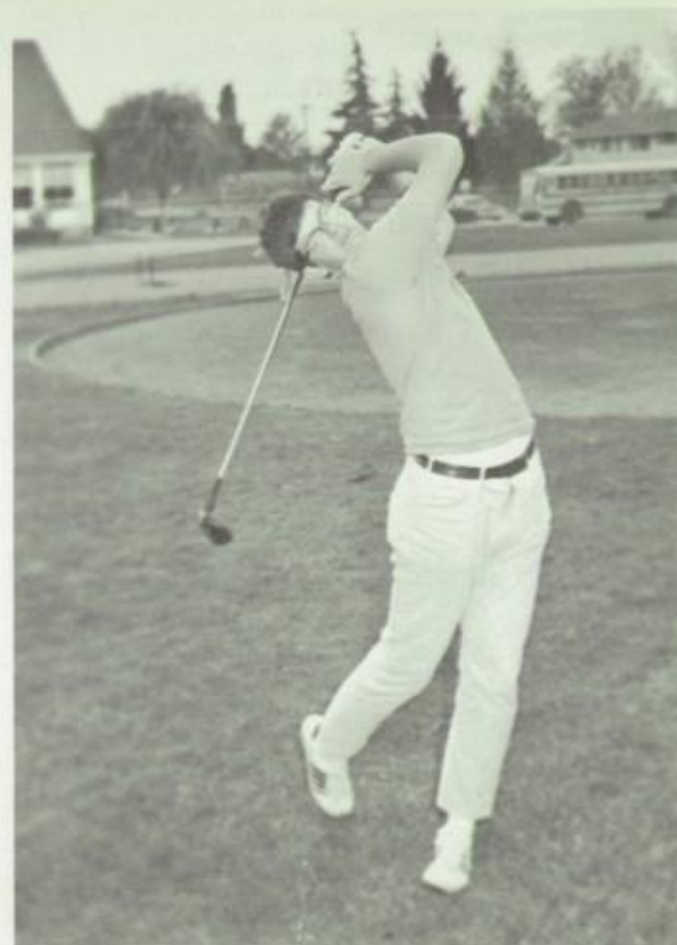

South was favored to take state but was disqualified at state due to a card signing error. Sheldon finished second at the state meet.

SHS was led at district by Mike Fitch's 156. He was followed by Pat Derickson with a 159, Bob Fondren, 169, Tom O'Neal, 173, and Hugh Jones, 176.

Although the girl's track team didn't win any meets, they had a good year as far as individual efforts.

School records were broken in five events, Sue Powell broke the 220 record, Gail Johnson the 440, Rhonda Parker the 880, Brenda Kriger the discus and the 880 medley relay record by a team of Sue, Gail, Rhonda, and Bev Lewis.

Rhonda and Brenda went to their state in their events. Rhonda with a time of 2:25.1 and Brenda with a throw of 106 feet 9½ inches.

Sophomore Portraits

In some of those old annuals we looked through we found some mighty cute drawings and pictures to introduce the portrait pages. Symbolism was really wild sometimes. For example one had a locomotive wheel for the faculty, a limosene for the seniors, and so on. Steve Allely drew some examples here of what dividers from the history of the Log looked like.

IN MEMORIUM

Senior Keith Prine and junior Chris Gunderson lost their lives in separate auto accidents during the first month of the school year.

Patty King and Don Cole were responsible for removing or helping to remove some 40 odd 6th graders from a bus which plunged into the icy waters of the McKenzie River as it returned from a weeklong outdoor education campout. Their coolness and quick thinking helped prevent any casualties.
